THE WILL FOR UNITY OF THE NORTH CAUCASUS: MAY 11, 1918

One Nation – One Spirit – One State

The Mountainous Republic of the Northern Caucasus stands as a luminous symbol of a region's rebirth, prevailing against the hardships of occupation, genocide, and exile.

Though it stood solitary between the White and Red Russian armies and was ultimately dissolved in June 1921, the Republic remains a concrete embodiment of the Caucasian peoples' resolve to forge a shared future rooted in common history and enduring values.

The Republic is the epic of a noble resistance, sustained by the political unity of Caucasian peoples who perceived their diverse ethnic origins, languages, and faiths not as divisions, but as a source of collective wealth.

The Republic of the Northern Caucasus represents the triumph of a collective will, established through congresses of high democratic representation despite the most adverse conditions.

It is the name of a sovereign state founded upon the fundamental right of self-determination and formally recognized by the major powers of its era.

We commemorate with mercy and profound gratitude all the heroes who sacrificed their lives for the freedom and independence of the North Caucasus.

Long Live the Spirit of Brotherhood and the Will for Unity of the Caucasian Peoples!
